

THE TIME HAS COME!!

Ticket are bought!

An update that many, myself included, have been eagerly waiting for: the time has come, the time to end this visa journey and start the journey to fulfill God's calling at COS YWAM. It has been more than a year filled with many sleepless nights, staying up late, sending emails to my lawyer and staff, and filling out paperwork. I won't lie, it's been hard, tough, and exhausting. I've had countless moments of doubt, questioning, "Is this really you, God?" But now, I can finally share an update that isn't just about the process or what I've been doing at home, but about the future to come! I know I didn't write a newsletter last month, but I felt like I had nothing to share. Not this time! A friend from the base in Sunny Coast shared a word he felt the Lord gave him for me: consistent. It resonated deeply, reminding me to endure, continue looking to God, and keep my eyes fixed on Him. This word has encouraged me to keep doing His work here in Denmark and as I prepare to reach Colorado Springs.

So did you secure your visa aswell?

Well... almost! The petition has been accepted, and the DS-160 has been approved. The only thing missing is final approval of my papers and the issuance of my American visa. This should take less than two weeks, so I felt comfortable buying my tickets. By the time of my next newsletter, all the paperwork should be in order, and it will be my last newsletter from Denmark.

I am very thankful to spend Christmas with my family and my new niece, who is absolutely adorable, as well as New Year's with most of my best friends. Saying goodbye to everyone I know will be hard, but the love I have for them will remain.

NOVEMBER

Spontaneous trip

Just last week, I was asked if I wanted to take a trip to Mainz, Germany, with a group of young adult leaders and people from different churches to visit Equippers Church and learn from their thriving ministry. Of course, I said yes. But this trip turned out to be much more than I had expected. It turns out that some of my closest childhood friends, boarding school friends, and even one of my cousins were also going. I didn't know this until early that morning, so I surprised them! It was just the weekend I needed—talking and saying goodbye to old friends, praying for each other, and building each other up. Not to mention all the new friends I made. It warmed my heart to see so many young people hungry for God and His Word. I had the chance to get excited about the Bible with them and share some of the knowledge I gained through my SBS. It was an unexpected trip that God provided, and I welcomed it with open arms.

Changes to newsletter

In my future newsletters, I plan to focus more on what God is doing in my life and in the lives of others, as that was the whole point of starting these updates.

I want to thank you all for being with me on this journey through your prayers and financial support. Thank you for investing in me and in the Kingdom of God. He is such a good Father, the greatest comforter and supporter.

Giving Him all the glory, Amen.
